

NOT CANTOR, BUT NORTON

137 BALLOTS IN THIS TAMMAN
SENATE CONVENTION.

The Thirty-second and Thirty-third Assembly Districts Would Not Hear of Senator Major Hinkley Goes Up to the Convention and Suggests a Way to End It

Some of the supporters of Senator Jacob C. Gault attributed his defeat to the friends of ex-Mayor Gilroy in the Thirty-second and Thirty-third Assembly districts.

It was 3:50 o'clock yesterday morning at the Convention, which was held at the Algonquin Club in East Eighty-fourth street, adjourned to sleep, having taken 144 ballots with no result. After the 1924 ballot, which, like all the predecessors, stood John Long of the Thirtieth Assembly district, 43; John J. Ryan of the Thirty-second, 43; Patrick F. Ferrigan of the

"Our delegation," said Mr. McIntyre, "has unanimously decided to substitute the name of Jacob A. Cantor."

This announcement was received with wild cheering and the delegates jumped to their feet and exclaimed: "No, no!" "We won't have Cantor!" "No Fourteenth street domination!" "He is an enemy of labor!" Senator Cantor friends tried to drown the noise of his opponents but the delegates in the majority and the minority made the most of their opportunity to display their bitterness.

On the 104th ballot Ferrigan received 4 votes and Ryan 41. The Thirtieth district was cast for Mr. Ryan.

"The Thirtieth Assembly district delegation cast 41 solid votes for Jacob A. Cantor," I object, I object, Mr. Chairman," yelled John Levy, one of the delegates from the "We won't have Cantor" group. The support Cantor, for the friends of John Levy propose to stick to him in this fight if it takes

The Cantor men were surprised by this bold and confusion prevailed during the roll call. Long's friends began to shout, "We must have Long!" "We won't have Cantor!" Four other Thirtieth district delegates on the next ballot bolted the candidacy of Cantor with LeRoy Lawrence Deimour voted for Cantor, and the

Mr. McIntyre asked for a second recess of five minutes to give his delegates another chance to confer. This conference lasted over half an hour, and the delegation unanimously decided to return to the support of John Long, Cantor. McIntyre said, having decided to allow his men to return to the meeting, he would not be present. The delegation consisted of the following: Long, 43; Ryan, 42; and Ferrigan, 42. After the 114th ballot Mr. McIntyre moved that a committee of two be appointed from each Assembly district to confer with the candidates and, if possible, report the selection of one to the Assembly. The committee was appointed, and no agreement was reached by the time the vention adjourned to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after Senator Smith had made a plea for the nomination of a second candidate. It might be nominated, because the personality of the candidate was of little consequence. "I am a gentleman," he continued, "to-day your duty is to the Democratic party and to-morrow a candidate will be elected. I am not a candidate."

The convention did not recess until 3 o'clock, when Chairman Edward C. Scheel called the roll and reported that he had received all the delegations, and a crowd of interested persons filled the hall and overheard into the night. The roll called for the first time at 11:50 o'clock, which resulted like the first three, more ballots were just the same. At 11:55 o'clock the roll was called a second time when he had just received from Alton, from A. D. Hoyt, secretary of the Democratic party, a telegram from Chicago.

When this telegram was read a delegate arose amid great excitement, and said that he hoped the message would have no effect on the delegates, and that they should exercise their rights without interference. Said he:

"We won't permit anybody, even Grover Cleveland, to interfere with our deliberations. The speech of the president of the United States, the applause, and the balloting went on. At 10 o'clock, just as the 125th ballot was announced without change in the vote, Chairman Hinkle of the committee to commit to the floor the ball, accompanied by Senators Hunter and Lawrence Delmore. They made their way to the between Chairman Hinkley, Senator and Mr. Deimour, and others, and then, on motion of Mr. Deimour, the Convention adjourned in delegation from the Thirty-third Assembly district, the Convention adjourned for ten minutes. Hinkley was talking to the Assembly district leaders and he and Lawrence Deimour had a talk with the members of the delegation. John C. Sheehan also had a talk during the recess. Mr. Neehan expressed disappointment in the result of the vote on the proposition to receive telegrams from all over the State asking for Cantor's renomination.

The Convention resumed to break the unit rule. When the Convention assembled the day was done, but the result of the previous ballot was not known. The members were given no vote choice. The Convention again adjourned at 5:30 o'clock for half an hour, and resumed at 6:00 o'clock.

Chairman Sheehy announced that but a hour and a half remained to make a nomination, and asked if anyone wished to be nominated. One delegate moved to nominate Justice Burke. He was declared out of order because he had not been sworn in.

McIntyre said that the whole State was watching the convention. Not make a nomination, he said, would be a disgrace to the district to the Republicans and would probably cost the Democrats the control of the Senate.

McIntyre then introduced a letter from Burke with the same old result.

Then a program was carried out while McIntyre lay on the floor. The program was by district leaders. The unit raise was to be set aside and five secret ballots taken.

At the end of the program, the delegates agreed that they had three candidates.

The nomination is a two-hour affair, after 5 p.m. on Tuesday, and is held in the city hall and at the public schools and the College of the City of New York. He lives at 1944 41st street.

The certificate of Mr. Norton's nomination in the Police Board, expires at 11:01 o'clock, and fifteen minutes to spare.

GRACE KENATE NOMINATIONS

Inspector Williams and Three District Commanding Men Among Them.

More evidence of the character of the fight which resulted in the Grace Kenate race riot on a county ticket was furnished last night. Until then the Grace men had not nominated a Republican candidate for legislative purposes, and that they were going to align in the Senate and Assembly fight merely as a matter
